From the Head Teacher

Dear Parents/ Carers,

We have had lots of exciting events this week to celebrate—yesterday which was World Book Day and each class completed activities based on the book 'The day the crayons quit' by Drew Daywalt. It is a fantastic story that helps us to reflect on what we have in our lives, how we can best utilise this and consider how to ensure that we do not take them for granted.

Lots of children have received an invite for themselves and their parents to attend our reading awards celebrations next week. Pupils must read at home every night to earn their 'Nights Reading Challenge' awards, if you didn't make it this half term, ensure that you read every day so that you receive your invite to next half term's celebration! The cut off for this term's invites was during last term, so teachers are already looking for when pupils reach the next certificate in their diaries.

Some parents will also find a small note in their child's diary, please remember to listen to your child read every night and sign the diary. This will mean that they can work towards reaching their 25, 50, 75, 100 and 200 nights reading awards!

We have just a few books available to be bought for pupils to use at home, we will hold another book sale next week—look out for a text message with the date.

Spaghetti Maths after school club started this week and the children had great fun! There are still places available, if you would like your child to attend, use the following website to book their place. www.spaghettimaths.co.uk

Lateness—School starts at 8:30am and your child must be present on the school playground ready to be taken to class by their teacher.

Attendance— It is your legal responsibility to ensure that your child attends school everyday. If for any reason your child can not attend school, you must inform the school office.

It is an expectation that as a parent of a pupil of Stanton Bridge, you will fully engage with the schools policies and procedures in supporting your child's education. All communication should be respectful and socially ac-
